Final inspection of the midway and exhibit buildings by President Mike Benton and other executives Sunday night revealed everything in readiness for the beginning of 1933 edition of the Southeastern fair today.

Roosevelt Speeds to Chicago To Talk Before Legion Today

Last-Minute Decision Sends President West for Four-Hour Visit to Convention and Century of Progress.

ABOARD PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S SPECIAL TRAIN, EN ROUTE TO CHICAGO, Oct. 1.—(UP)—President Roosevelt departed abruptly for Chicago late today to address the opening session of the American Legion convention tomorrow. Announcing his intention only a few hours before he boarded his private car, Mr. Roosevelt and his party left Hyde Park station at 5 p. m.

The chief executive is deciding on the sudden westward trip cut short an expected stay at Hyde Park in order to attend the rally of veterans and also to visit the Century of Progress exposition.

A special train of the New York Central railroad was ordered to carry him and his party to Chicago.

The subject of the president's address to the Legion has not been divulged, but observers felt that it would be an accounting of his financial stewardship aimed at justifying the government economy program.

Such a topic, it was argued, would be timely because the veterans were among the groups materially affected by the drastic reduction of expenditures in order that a balanced budget could be effected.

Some persons also believed Mr. Roosevelt might elaborate on the subject to outline further the administration's financial policy particularly as regards credit expansion as a means of restoring normal business conditions.

Plans call for Mr. Roosevelt's arrival in Chicago about noon Monday.

NEW CORPORATION TO DIRECT RELIEF

EN ROUTE WITH PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT TO CHICAGO, Oct. 1.—(UP)—Creation of a government non-profit corporation to buy and distribute the necessities of life to the unemployed this winter was announced tonight by President Roosevelt as he hurried westward to Chicago, where he will address the American Legion convention tomorrow.

The gigantic relief corporation was organized with the dual purpose of providing food, clothing and fuel for the destitute and at the same time relieving glutted markets of their price-depressing surpluses.

Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief administrator, was named by Mr. Roosevelt as chairman of the new corporation.

He is scheduled to go directly from the railroad station to the auditorium for the address. Afterward, he will proceed to the Century of Progress Exposition for luncheon. He is expected to remain in the city only about four hours, heading back east tomorrow afternoon.

Mr. Roosevelt will be the first president to visit Chicago in many years. It was understood he was

50,000 TO MARCH IN TRIBUTE TO NRA

Final Details for Big Parade Wednesday Will Be Worked Out Today.

Last-minute details of Atlanta's great NRA parade for Wednesday will be worked out this morning in order that everything may move smoothly when the city starts to show its strength from its enthusiastic response to President Roosevelt's challenge, "Let's go forward!"

Plans for the demonstration of confidence and faith in the new deal have been completed by Adjutant General Lindley W. Camp, procession grand marshal; Alderman Farris A. Mitchell, chairman of the mayor's parade committee; and Robert F. Madrox, chairman of the NRA organization campaign in Atlanta, except for several minor details.

The last meeting of the committee in charge of the parade will be held at 10 o'clock this morning at the city hall to perfect the final details, General Camp announced. More than 125 merchants and others have agreed to enter floats, and more than 150 floats are expected to be entered by this afternoon.

Down through the deep canyon of Peachtree to Whitehall to Mitchell to the city hall, where it will disband, there will be something entirely different from most parades, in that it will signalize the reawakening of the old Atlanta spirit of the depression.

General Camp Sunday night emphasized the fact that the Atlanta bankers, judges, county officials and other prominent persons will walk in the parade rather than ride in cars. "All who are physically able to do so will walk," General Camp said. "There will be no sitting back and riding in the parade, because we must all place our shoulders behind the load and shove to bring back prosperity."

Colonel James M. Kimbrough Jr. will be parade chief of staff, and the following will act as aides to the grand marshal: Lieutenant Colonel Charles E. Thompson Jr., Lieutenant Colonel F. M. McWhorter, Major Charles H. Cox, Major T. O. Calloway, Major W. M. Ward, Captain H. A. McClure, Captain W. A. Cunningham and Captain George H. Smith.

Many beautiful floats are being entered in the parade. The marchers and floats will be reviewed at the city hall, where leaders will take their places as their units reach that point.

Youth, 18, Confesses Killing of Girl, 13

MARLIN, Texas, Oct. 1.—(UP)—Dorothy Baugh, 13-year-old Marlin high school student, died today of a bullet wound suffered after a Saturday night motor car ride, and Lee Francis, 18, was arrested.

LABOR TO LAUNCH VIGOROUS DRIVE

10,000,000 Membership Is Seen as Goal on Eve of Annual Meeting.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—(UP)—William Green reported today that the American Federation of Labor now has nearly 4,000,000 members; said the next goal is 10,000,000, and predicted that the federation convention, beginning tomorrow, will order "an organizing campaign such as we have never known."

At the same time, A. F. of L.'s executive committee, in its annual report, set a goal of 10,000,000 members by the year 1935, and recommended that the federation program be revised to assure "much greater reductions in work hours and very much higher standards for minimum wages."

The new membership figures, President Green, of the federation, said, were presented to offset any doubts that might have arisen from the council's statement showing an average of 2,126,796 paid-up members in the last fiscal year, ended with August 31.

To the council's total, he said, there now could be added 100,000 exempt from dues, and the following year would add 100,000 more. They had not paid per capita taxes by the end of August: 300,000 in new members, 500,000 in new international union locals, 450,000 in new old international unions and 50,000 recruits in old federal unions.

Green Favored.
Green, most of the delegates say, is almost certain of re-election now that John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, has turned down overtures that he seek election and instead will support Green.

But in his report, submitted to the executive council, Green made no mention of the other troubles that promise to stir the convention, among them the objections of many to the organizing methods used by the federation since 1919.

Members of many branches of the federation, particularly in the metals trades department, are preparing to protest the method of issuing charters to new federal unions, which are affiliated directly with the A. F. of L. and hence add nothing directly to the strength or financial resources of subordinate international unions.

The contention of this group is that instead of urging workers to join federal unions, the federation organizers now in the field should see that they become members of established trade unions.

BUCHANAN, Ga., Oct. 1.—George Sailors, 24, was found dead on a railroad track near Bremen, Ga., early today and tonight officers arrested two Harrison county youths in connection with the death.

MOVE FOR SUNDAY BASEBALL, MOVIES IS BEFORE COUNCIL

Fight Forecast, Despite Majorities in Primary; Ordinance to Restrict Key's Power on Slate.

Proposed liberalization of Sunday blue laws and restriction of Mayor James L. Key's authority in selection of council committees for 1934 are major matters slated for consideration of council this afternoon.

Councilman John A. White and Alderman Ed A. Gilliam are co-authors of the Sunday amendment measure to be presented to council as a result of the handsome majorities given referenda in the September 20 primary on Sunday baseball and Sunday movies for Atlanta.

Proponents of the measure predicted its passage, but several members of council planned a fight on it. Mayor Key favors such amendments, holding that council should be amenable to the expressed will of the people.

Given Big Vote in Primary.
Baseball got a total of 7,735 votes in the referendum, while opponents polled 4,995, and Sunday movies had 1,734 advocates as against 5,210 in opposition.

The ordinance committee has acted favorably on an ordinance sponsored by Councilman Joseph E. Berman, which, it is contended, would virtually strip the mayor of his authority in assignment of committee members. The measure, among other things, groups all major committees into four sections, and provides that one member from each of the 13 wards shall be selected to serve on each of them.

An additional proviso is that no member shall be named to serve on more than one committee in each group and no member shall be assigned to more than four of the dozen committees.

Friends of the mayor plan a concerted fight on the measure.

Other Matters Slatd.
Among other important matters slated for consideration at this afternoon council meeting are the following:

1. Provision of the city's $75,000 share of the $150,000 necessary to obtain $300,000 for the remaining quarter of the year from the federal government for relief purposes.

2. Consideration of an October finance sheet, which the finance committee is to act on at a meeting scheduled for 1 o'clock this afternoon, an hour before the council session. It developed Saturday that no adjustments have been recommended in salaries of the city's officers and employees.

3. A demand by Alderman-elect Ellis B. Barrett for a council committee probe into alleged illegal activities of city attaches in preparing a preferential ballot of candidates in the municipal primary September 20.

4. Proposal by the Albert Steiner building committee that the city hall be closed at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon of all week days except Saturday. The committee will open the city hall at 8 a. m. and allow employees 45 minutes for lunch, if council approves the measure.

5. Proposal by the tax committee to employ a special tax investigator to secure an additional $300,000 annual income from intangibles. The problem has been under consideration for many months. It is anticipated that out-of-town experts will be retained.

6. Suggested repeal of a council ordinance limiting purchase of materials for projects to be prosecuted from federal relief funds and restricting employment of labor to Atlantians. City Attorney James L. Mayson has recommended the repeal.

Two Hurt as Wind Rips Roof From Lakewood Grandstand

Two persons were hurt and scores of persons, including small children, narrowly escaped severe injury late Sunday at Lakewood park when a gust of wind riding in front of a black cloud ripped loose a large section of the grandstand roof and slapped it down near the midway.

Children screamed, women fainted and men and women rushed from temporary shelter into a driving rain when a section of roof, 40 feet by 30 feet in size, lifted like a hinge, stood poised momentarily, then fell with a tremendous crash, and a large section of the roof crashed down.

Some of their musical instruments were reported to have been damaged. Officials of the fair surveyed the damage and announced that the mishap would not interfere with the entertainment features which will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon. The section of roof extending along the grandstand toward the southeast was the only structure on the grounds that gave way to the wind.

Torrential rain, sharp lightning and gusts of wind slowed traffic in downtown Atlanta for about 30 minutes at nightfall. Two transformers were blown out by lightning on the north side, but the Georgia Power Company said the damage was slight and the interruption of electric service of brief duration.

GARMENT MAKERS TO EXPLAIN SHARP PRICE RISES

Johnson Calls Alleged Profiteers to Public Hearing; Buying Drive Opens October 9.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—(UP)—The first action by the NRA against manufacturers accused of "skyrocketing" prices was announced today by Hugh S. Johnson, the recovery administrator, as he plunged anew into the quest for an agreement that would send striking Pennsylvania coal miners back to work.

At the same time, Johnson disclosed that October 9 had been set for the beginning of a nationwide buying campaign to support employers who have increased wages and employment under the Blue Eagle.

Making known his intention to investigate price rises, the administrator said summonses are being prepared requiring certain manufacturers of overalls and other wearing apparel to answer, in public hearings, charges that they have boosted their prices from 100 to 200 per cent, with the explanation that the increased costs are due to the cotton textile code.

Based on Complaints.
Deputy Administrator Arthur D. Whiteside will conduct the hearings, which will be based on scores of complaints from retailers. The date of the hearings has not yet set.

Johnson called to Walter Reed hospital, where he is convalescing from mine operations, spokesmen for mine workers in his attempt to get them to put the federal price code to rest.

Johnson was said in informed sources to have obtained a tentative accord late yesterday from Myron Taylor, Eugene Grace, heads of the United States and Bethlehem Steel Corporation. They departed later to lay this before the Iron and Steel Institute in New York.

Present Controversy.
The present controversy, which has resulted in thousands of miners leaving their jobs on strike, centers upon the demands for recognition of the United Mine Workers' "wildcat" mines of the United States Steel Corporation.

October 9 will mark the opening of the long-awaited "concerted code of fair play" by industry, trade and the NRA to convince the consuming public that "now is the time to buy."

The administration announced that it will dispose of final phases of its recovery movement is to be permanent.

It will be shown that "now is the time to buy" because hundreds of thousands of men are returning to work, and that the increased cost of every factor entering into the production of every commodity must quickly be reflected in higher prices if the recovery movement is to be permanent.

Facts and figures on exhaustive analysis of current conditions and the operation of codes will be used to demonstrate to consumers that, like the purchasing agent of a corporation buying in anticipation of price increases, their self-interest must lead them to buy now.

Peccora is known, however, to have spent most of the last three months scrutinizing the books of Dillon, Read & Company, and probably will open the hearing with presentation of evidence in connection with that firm's operations.

Career Begun in Georgia Ring Ends Beside Georgia Road

W. L. STRIPLING.

By RALPH MCGILL.

William Lawrence Stripling, whose long fight career came to an end Sunday when an automobile crash necessitated the amputation of his left foot, had begun his career in Atlanta in 1921 and had won over the best competition offered him.

The city of Columbus, Ga., offered Mike McGuire's manager, Joe Jacobs, later to become famous as a manager of Max Schmeling, world's champion, a guarantee of $5,000 to fight W. L. Stripling on August 2, 1923.

It was this fight which was to attract national attention. His bizarre conclusion and the charges made by Joe Jacobs, involving threats of lynching, the Ku Klux Klan, guns at the ringside and so forth, made a story of the day.

PECCORA TO SUBMIT BANK DATA TODAY IN OKLAHOMA JAIL

Future Course of Probe May Be Set at Conference With Fletcher.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—(UP)—The result of months of undercover digging into the books of leading New York banks will be outlined to Chairman Fletcher of the senate banking committee tomorrow by Ferdinand Pecora, counsel in preparation for the resumption Tuesday of the investigation into Wall Street practices.

Fletcher and Pecora are expected to draft a program for the hearings which the committee chairman has announced will be held almost continuously for the next two months in an effort to have a report ready for the senate when it convenes in January.

Reports of sensational evidence have reached Washington ahead of Pecora, but members of the committee have disclaimed any knowledge of what the counsel and his staff of aids have found.

The committee counsel, who gained nationwide notice for his conduct of previous inquiries into J. P. Morgan & Company, Kuhn, Loeb & Company, and the National City bank, has said nothing.

Pecora is known, however, to have spent most of the last three months scrutinizing the books of Dillon, Read & Company, and probably will open the hearing with presentation of evidence in connection with that firm's operations.

Kelly Is Lodged

Gangster Flown to Scene of Trial on Capital Charge of Robbery.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 1.—(UP) Covered by machine guns, George Kelly, bulking ex-bootlegger, stumbled from a biplane after transport here today to face the prospect of trial on capital charges for the Charles F. Urschel kidnaping.

"Helly, gang," Kelly said as he followed a group of federal officers out of the large nine-passenger ship which left Memphis at noon. "Nice trip."

After Kelly and his slender wife, Kathryn, were taken in a motorcade of 10 cars from the municipal airport to the brick Oklahoma county jail, Herbert K. Hyde, federal district attorney, said he would recommend the filing of state armed robbery charges tomorrow against both Kelly and Albert Bates, the latter already convicted on federal kidnaping conspiracy charges. Oklahoma law provides a maximum penalty of death for robbery with firearms.

Two machine-gun barrels were trained on him, another on the crowd of several hundred behind wire fences at the field.

Pelham, Ga., Doctors On 'Cash-Carry' Basis

Taking a tip from the physicians of Telfair county, the doctors, dentists and druggists at Pelham, Ga., have gone on a "cash-and-carry" basis, according to last week's issue of the Pelham Journal.

In a half-page advertisement the Pelham professional men and druggists served notice that "no credit" will be extended to any person who has not satisfactorily settled his unpaid account. Any services rendered such persons will be on a strictly cash basis. In the case of night professional visits an additional charge will be added to the regular day rate, the advertisement states.

At the same time the Pelham advertisement pointed out, "all worthy charity will receive the same attention as before."

Stand of the Telfair physicians was attacked and defended in Atlanta. The Fulton County Medical Society adopted resolutions upholding the position of the Telfair counties.

Boxer's Left Side Badly Crushed in Accident Occurring As He Is En Route From Club to Hospital to See Wife.

NURSE'S QUICK AID MAY SAVE ATHLETE

Father and Mother, on Way Home From Texas; Driver of Machine Is Exonerated of Blame.

MACON, Ga., Oct. 1.—(UP)—W. L. (Young) Stripling's boxing career was ended today when his left foot was cut off in a collision between his motorcycle and an automobile.

Stripling also received a fractured pelvis and physicians said he had a "50-50" chance to live.

The accident occurred while the former heavyweight contender was en route from a golf course to a hospital to see his wife and their third baby—two weeks old.

Sheriff J. R. Hicks Jr. said R. V. Johnson, clerk for a loan company, was driving the automobile. The officer said the accident was "inadvertent" and no charges would be made.

Friend Is Witness.

Ray Barrow, a close friend of the boxer, who was driving his own car, said he saw Stripling approaching on his motorcycle and waved to him. As Stripling waved back Johnson's car swerved from behind Barrow's and Stripling turned quickly to avoid hitting him, running off the highway.

Johnson's fender sidwiped the motorcycle and left the fighter's left foot dangling by a tendon and a strip of skin just below the ankle.

Physicians amputated the foot at a hospital and several hours later said the fighter had reacted "quite favorably."

He is still in a very serious condition," Dr. A. R. Rozar, the surgeon, said. "Another operation will be necessary. The foot was torn off at the ankle joint and the bones are broken so that another operation will have to be made as soon as the patient is strong enough. The leg will have to come off above the ankle."

Physicians said a completion of the operation today would have proved fatal.

Johnson, recovered tonight from a nervous collapse following the accident, said he saw Barrow sidwiped his hand and thought he intended to stop. (Sheriff Hicks said it was the gesture Barrow made in waving to Stripling.)

Three cars ahead of him slowed down and stopped to pass, not seeing the motorcycle until it was too late.

He said he recognized Stripling but was unable to stop.

As Johnson ran to him Stripling asked for help in locating his bridge of teeth and when someone said "your foot is cut off," Stripling looked down and replied, "It sure is."

The "King of the Canebrakes" then grinned at Barrow and said, "Well, kid, I guess it means there will be no more road work."

As he was started to the hospital he cried "Don't leave my foot."

Physicians said if Stripling lives he will owe his life to the presence of Miss Frances Jones, a registered nurse who was riding with Barrow. She fashioned her cape into a tourniquet and stopped the spurting blood from his severed leg and made band-

WOMEN IN VIRGINIA URGE VOTE FOR REPEAL

Issue To Be Settled in Dry
Stronghold at Polls
Tomorrow.

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 1.—(AP)—Prominent women issued appeals tonight for prohibition repeal as Virginia, a dry stronghold for many years, made ready to vote Tuesday on repeal of the eighteenth amendment and substitution of a liquor-control law for her state prohibition act.

Virginia will be the thirty-second state to vote on repeal, $1 so far having indicated a choice for repeal.

The women, urging that Virginia "tear down the flag of hypocrisy" by voting for repeal, added their appeals to numerous others coming during the last days of the campaign for opposing camps.

To these has been added the statement of James A. Farley, national democratic chairman, who urged Virginia to vote overwhelmingly for repeal of national prohibition.

The statements from the women repeal leaders came tonight after what was considered the climax last night of the unusually quiet campaign, which did not get under way in earnest until the last two weeks.

NEW GENERAL STRIKE THREATENED IN CUBA

Grau San Martin Moves To Suppress Protest Movement.

HAVANA, Oct. 1.—(AP)—While the government of Ramon Grau San Martin set to work today to combat a movement designed to protest "Bloody Friday," the scattered forces of labor were being marshaled to attempt another island-wide general strike which they said may begin at midnight tonight.

The labor movement, the first concerted action following Friday's burst of firing which killed 7 and wounded 14 in Havana, was also designed as a counter-thrust to the government's persistent anti-communist campaign.

Fifty to sixty alleged communists were arrested in Havana and 40 more at Casablanca, across the bay, were rounded up in Santiago and hundreds more throughout the island.

The government continued to search for foreign communist agitators for deportation while the new chief of police in Havana worked on the reorganization of his forces, announcing "we will secure public order at all costs."

The communistic National Confederation of Labor was operating secretly to consummate the general strike which its leaders had planned.

unions affiliated with international organizations.

Green reported that since June 1, new directly affiliated federal unions had obtained 534 charters. But national and international groups at the same time, he added, have issued 2,953 new charters to local unions.

Larger increase.

Furthermore, he said that old federal unions had added only 50,000 new members while the increment to the other group was fully 450,000.

"The convention which opens tomorrow," Green forecast, "will issue a clarion call to all America to organize and will provide the authority and the instructions for an organizing campaign such as we have never known."

"Already we are within some 50,000 of our war-time strength, and when it is understood that many of our new unions contain as many as 5,000 members it may be seen that even as we meet here that point may have been passed."

"Our next goal is 10,000,000, and after that we shall advance it to 25,000,000."

"This is our preparation for full and complete co-operation in the new industrial America that is being created through the NRA."

The convention will write into the records one of the greatest pages in all of history in this preparation for the new deal and the new day."

Council Report.

The executive council of the federation analyzing the situation in the annual report prepared for the convention said:

"While the act was intended to absorb the unemployment by reducing the workday, so that more persons could be employed and national purchasing power increased by raising wages, some of the codes adopted have so perverted the purpose of the recovery act as to actually increase hours and decrease wage-earners' incomes."

"Most flagrant instances of such perversion have been the modification of the re-employment agreement. But even in some instances the code proposed by a specific industry suggests a work week considerably longer than the number of hours actually being worked and rates that reduce earnings under code conditions."

"The facts are, the council contended, that 'hours of work are too long to assure absorption of the millions without jobs' and 'minimum wages are so low that purchasing power lags behind production.' It was added:

"It is obvious that such codes must be reopened for constructive revision. The future of the recovery act depends upon the honesty and impartiality of such revisions and the increasing development of balance participation in decisions of policy and standards."

Reports that could not be authenticated but nevertheless were given credence by some delegates to the convention were that a glowingly enthusiastic report on the NRA had been drawn, at first, for the executive council, which refused to accept it.

There remained in the final draft, though, the expression that the recovery act was "the most important and far-reaching legislation ever enacted by congress."

to the runway, smiling, surrounded by the half-dozen federal men who made the three-and-a-half-hour flight from Memphis where the Kelly's freedom ended in a police trap last week.

Both are under indictment for the kidnapping of the oil millionaire, for which seven persons were convicted in federal court here yesterday, and both, Prosecutor Hyde said today, indicated their intention of standing trial beginning October 9 on the government's conspiracy indictment.

CAREER OF 'STIRB' BEGAN IN COLUMBUS

which is still the favorite subject of boxing writers on a dull afternoon.

There were none of the above forces actually involved but it made a good story and Joe Jacobs always enjoyed telling it, embellishing it with the passing years.

What actually happened was this. The guarantee of $8,500, underwritten by Columbus businessmen and in the bank when McTigue and Jacobs arrived, looked like an easy pickup for knocking over a high school kid in the Georgia sticks.

McTigue came to Columbus a few days before the fight and began training. The program was entirely agreeable. But Tex Rickard began to call from New York, telling Jacobs that he was foolish to risk his title in a small city where there was no commission to protect him and that he would offer him $50,000 for a fight in Madison Square Garden.

Fears Mount.

At the same time Jacobs' fears were augmented by the report of a scout who had seen Stripling in training. He reported the high school kid to be a husky youngster weighing 170 pounds with a wallop in either hand and a lot of boxing skill.

And so, late on the night before the fight, Jacobs called the fight off. He announced McTigue had injured a thumb. Special trains, which

HOMER C. FOSTER In His Aldermanic Race Is "Toting His Own Skillet"

To the Voters of Atlanta:

Homer C. Foster is asking that you return him to the General Council tomorrow as Alderman from the Ninth ward.

Mr. Foster's record in Council for three years shows that he is against waste and extravagance in the city government—shows that he champions clean and honest government—shows that he fought against excessive appropriations when the city did not have the money to care for them.

Foster's record shows that he stood consistently for operating within the income of the city. It shows that when reductions in expenditures and salaries were imperative, due to reductions in the city's income, he did not "play politics," but stood for a balanced budget, voting his honest convictions for the best interests of the citizens of Atlanta, and that he did his part to keep Atlanta's credit from being impaired.

Foster's friends—and many who do not know him personally—realize that because he stood for necessary city reductions, which were unpopular in some quarters, he is being strenuously opposed in the run-over race tomorrow from this same source.

Mr. Foster is a combine business and working man. He owns his own business, and has met with more than reasonable success. At the same time he is a working man. He is in thorough sympathy with all who labor, and believes that all workers should receive full and fair wages. But Councilman Foster believes that a municipality, just like any private business, could not long survive if it continued to pay out in salaries and in other expenses more than it took in. His record and vote shows that he favors restoring basic pay to all city employees if and when sufficient revenue is received by the city.

A few "politicians" and some office-holders who keep a political eye on the future, voted—and would vote again—for wild and extravagant appropriations to satisfy their selfish and political ends—are also actively working to prevent Foster's election tomorrow. Of course, we do not need all his opponent's supporters in this class. Many unselfish and good citizens are among his opponent's supporters.

But the thinking citizens and voters of Atlanta are turning to Homer Foster for leadership and his voting of his own honest convictions. He has stood by a great majority of the citizens of this city. He has voted and championed their cause. They believe in Foster's ability and his honesty; they believe that his three years' experience in Council ably fits him for Aldermanic duties—and they are going to the polls tomorrow and give him the promotion he deserves.

The friends of Foster ask you to do the same thing on the ground that he has made a good Councilman, and that he will continue to vote and stand for a clean, economical administration of city affairs.

Only the more or less close friends and personal acquaintances of Mr. Foster can appreciate the physical handicap he has had to undergo in the recent campaign and in this run-over race. Slowly moving around on his crutches as a result of an attack made upon him by a negro criminal when he, as a city official, was trying to enforce law and order, he has been unable to make an active campaign—unable to get around and see the voters as he would like. But notwithstanding this handicap, Mr. Foster is "toting his own skillet" in this campaign. He is depending on no clique or faction, but is receiving the voluntary collective support of many good friends, who are aiding him in every legitimate way.

This committee urges you to go to the polls tomorrow and VOTE FOR FOSTER for Alderman for the Ninth ward. Don't penalize a man for doing his conscientious duty, particularly when in the doing of it he has stood for the best interests of the citizens of this city. The entire city votes Tuesday.

HOMER FOSTER CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE.

Mr. Foster will speak over Station WGST tonight at 9 o'clock. He will give you his own reasons for asking for re-election to the General Council.—(adv.)

Culbertson on Contract

Shortening the Closed Hand's Trumps.

BY ELY CULBERTSON.
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

Few bridge players in the actual stress of play can completely vision the possibilities of making the Dummy the master hand—that is, in cases where the trump strength is evenly divided, deliberately accepting Forces in the closed hand and eventually using the trumps in Dummy to draw away adverse remaining trumps. Hands with this type of play occur frequently, and in my opinion are more frequently misplayed than any others at the Bridge table.

Recently Mr. Lewis Osborn, playing in a Duplicate game at the Deschamps Club, New York, found a way to make a Grand Slam contract by the simple process of making Dummy the master hand.

South Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.

♠ A Q 8 5 3
♥ K J 5 2
♦ 10 9
♣ A 9

♠ J 7 5 2
♣ 6 5 4 3

The bidding: (Figures after bids refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South West North East
1♠ Pass 1♥ Pass
2♥(1) Pass 4♥(2) Pass
4NT(3) Pass 5NT(4) Pass
7♥(5) Pass Pass Pass

1—Although South has a very strong hand, he does not force because he knows that whatever his partner's bid suit, it is highly improbable that the bidding will stop here.

2—North has a very strong hand in support of the heart bid. His hand contains 3-1-2 honor-tricks and the Ace of the first suit bid by his partner, as well as four trumps to the King-Knave.

3—Assured of a fit, Mr. Osborn now uses the Slam convention.

4—North should bid seven here.

5—Even with North's jump to game and later showing of two Aces, the bid of seven is too strong. Six should be bid.

West, hoping to deprive North and South of a ruff or two, opened the heart Ten, and when the Dummy went down on the table Mr. Osborn could see twelve certain tricks. One line of play would be to lay down the diamond Ace-King and plan to ruff a losing diamond in the Dummy. There is, however, a much better line of play that does not involve the same risk of loss, and this was the line adopted by Mr. Osborn. He won the Opening lead with the heart Knave in Dummy, and immediately led a low spade, which he ruffed in his own hand. He then followed with the Ace and Queen of trumps and re-entered Dummy by leading a low club to the Ace. West's last trump was drawn by leading the heart King, and on the last trump lead Mr. Osborn discarded one of the losing diamonds. The Ace of spades was then led, and the remaining loser in the closed hand discarded. The Declarer returned to his hand with a club and cashed the remaining tricks to fulfill a well bid and well-played contract.

♦Friendly Counsel
BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD: It is in our nature to agree that indefinitely long engagements are unwise and unfair to both boy and girl; I heartily agree with this viewpoint. Yet my very agreement is giving rise to a problem the seriousness of which seems to increase every day.

I am a young man who has finished college and who is at present engaged in teaching school. I plan to drop teaching within year or two and to begin a three or four-year period of preparation for a professional career. I have several girl friends whom I visit frequently and whose companionship I greatly enjoy. One is a very dear friend. So far I have not permitted my relationship with any of these girls to go beyond that of friendship, knowing as I do that it will be four years at the least before I can think of marrying and that it would be unreasonable and unfair to ask her to wait for me to ask any girl to wait that long.

I have found, however, that mere friendship, no matter how close, doesn't satisfy. The heart yearns for something more. There occurred to me today what I hope is a solution to this problem. Why cannot I go ahead and offer my love to the dearest of these friends on grounds something like this: "I love you so much that I am unwilling to exact from you any promise to wait until I am in a position to marry you, but so long as you care for me no one else why should we not go on and be in love with each other, on the sole condition that in the event either of us comes to care for someone else during the interval that must elapse before we can be married, he or she will inform the other immediately and the relationship will automatically be terminated?"

Could there be anything wrong or unfair about such a relationship? Would the fact that we are in love with one another so hamper our other social contacts that it would have virtually the same unjust restrictions of a long engagement? Or would it not prove very valuable to us both? I

Dalton Fruit Company Loses $450 to Bandits

DALTON, Ga., Oct. 1.—The Dalton Fruit Company was held up and robbed late Saturday night by two masked white men. Approximately $450 was reported missing by officers of the company.

Gus Bramlett, manager, stated that he was in the company's office awaiting the arrival of one of the company trucks and was checking up receipts for the week. His assistant had just gone to a near-by cafe for a cup of coffee. Hearing a knock at the door, Bramlett, thinking it was his assistant returning, opened the door for the two robbers.

Mr. Bramlett was immediately seized and taken to the storage room where he was bound and gagged. The robbers gathered up all of the money in sight and departed by the rear entrance as Mr. Bramlett's assistant returned by the front door. Checks totaling several hundred dollars were not molested. Officers were notified immediately but no arrests have been made.

COLONEL MANN NAMED ATHENS R. O. T. C. HEAD

ATHENS, Ga., Oct. 1.—(P)—Colonel Herbert E. Mann, of the 8th cavalry at Fort Bliss, El Paso, Texas, was named head of the R. O. T. C. of the University of Georgia R. O. T. C., succeeding Major A. T. Colley.

Major Colley was ordered to report to Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., for active duty. Colonel Mann, native of New York state, served in the 7th U. S. cavalry in Cuba and the Philippines and is a graduate of the army cavalry and equitation schools. He was also graduated from the general staff school.

Associated with Colonel Mann in the university military department will be Captains E. W. Godbold, H. G. Holt and J. L. Lambert in the cavalry and Captain P. H. Camp and Lieutenant P. E. Hunt in the infantry, all of whom recently returned from service in the civilian conservation corps.

shall appreciate your candid opinion. T. W.

ANSWER: The plan is fair from your standpoint and, if the girl accepts it in the spirit it is proposed, it is fair from her standpoint. But it is she, not you, who has to lose a four-year period of separation during which you are diverted by your studies and by the social life in connection with the university. It is more than likely to play havoc with your interest in the girl left at home.

There are some men whose affections will stand the test of separation and survive the passage of time. But these men are few and far between. On the other hand, once a man makes up his mind that he is to marry some man four, five, ten years hence she settles down to wait the necessary time and nothing deters her from the unexpended summation of her hopes. Therefore the first citizen of every college town is the "College Widow." Jokes are made at her expense, farces are written about her. Yet she is a tragic figure. She has loved and lost not once but many times until her faith has faded.

Such an arrangement as you propose would hamper your other social contacts to some extent; depending upon the good horse sense of the girl who accepts your proposal. If she is clever enough to realize that her future happiness hinges on keeping the old bridges open, on her clinging to old friends and on making some new ones from time to time, then she would not be seriously hampered. But if she is foolish enough to permit you to pre-empt her life of every other male interest (as you will want to do) she is taking a big hazard.

In your own case the very fact that you are now in love with one girl vacillates you against the charms of others so long as you can be near the one you love. You will have to school yourself not to be selfish with her, not to try to absorb all her time and interest.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD: I am a poor boy in love, a bad fix to be in. The girl I care for is older than I. She is partial to boys older than herself. Now what can I do to make her care for me? I wear good clothes, am well liked by the girls, but am not interested in any of those that are interested in me. H. S. N.

ANSWER: Get on in the world, young man. If you sit around and mope over your inability to get the attention of the girl you love you will never grow up. You have observed that she likes mature boys, then give evidence of maturity. In the meantime cultivate the girls that show interest in you. Whether it be a dress and hat in the store, or a bean in the market, every woman wants the things that other women want. The merchants who make their living by studying the female mind and catering to its whims will tell you that this is true. CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

PAYING THE PENALTY.

An objective lesson for the municipal government of Atlanta is contained in an editorial in the Chicago Tribune, in which that paper, published in a city where the public employes have had to go for months at a time without pay because there was no money in the treasury, takes cold comfort out of the fact that New York is in still worse fix.

The difference, in the view of the Tribune, is because "New York avoided the consequences of its financial sins and the imperative showdown longer than Chicago by better but more foolish sidestepping."

The condition of the governments in the two greatest cities of the United States is due to the fact that, in defiance of the necessity for retrenchment and economy, salaries and wages were kept up, and no lessening of other calls on the public treasury was made, despite the drop in revenues resulting from the diminishing of property values and the inability of many taxpayers to meet their taxes.

Pointing out that "New York, having tried to dream itself out of its circumstances, finds itself going bankrupt," the Tribune finds comfort for Chicago in the fact that—

Mayor Kelly and the city administrators in general have not yielded to the idea that the ruin of the city's welfare is the remedy for the consequences of public extravagance and profligacy. Neither the governor nor the mayor has proceeded upon the theory that injury to the people is the salvation of Chicago or city. Consequently, Illinois and Chicago are on their way back at a time when New York, trusting to the safety of its limitless wealth, is sinking. The contrast is too favorable to the saner, sounder policy to permit thought of a change here. With horrible examples illuminating the wrong road, this state will have every reason to congratulate itself if its authorities keep their minds fixed upon the policies which have been of such benefit.

Atlanta is not now in the condition of New York, nor forced to be hopeful, as in the case of Chicago, that its fiscal affairs are on the way to being mended, because the local municipal government, seeing the inevitable result of continued boom-time expenditures, went on an economy program which has enabled it to meet its obligations and balance its budget.

The newly-named council must realize the necessity for a continuance of economy if Atlanta, like New York and Chicago and other municipalities throughout the country, is to avoid the spectre of bankruptcy.

FOREIGN COTTON SALES OFF.

An encouraging growth in world use of American cotton and an accompanying material decrease in the use of Egyptian and Indian cotton is reported by the New York Cotton Exchange service.

Total consumption of American cotton was increased during the last season by 1,367,000 bales, or 14.9 per cent over the previous season. Proof that this increase was not merely a part of a definite increase in consumption, but was as well the result of a definite turning to American-grown fiber, is shown by a decrease of 477,000 bales, or 9.8 per cent, in Indian cotton and 88,000 bales, or 8.9 per cent, in Egyptian cotton.

Consumption of American cotton last season by the spinners of the world aggregated 14,141,000 bales as against 12,586,000 for the 1931-32 season, and was more than a million bales above the ten-year average of 13,423,000.

The increase in consumption of the American staple is not to be credited entirely to the renewed activity of American mills, having been registered as well in Great Britain, on the continent and in the Orient.

Cotton interests are confident that this increase will continue under the stimulating influence of growing American foreign trade generally and as a result of the arrangements by this country to sell huge amounts to China and Soviet Russia. It is believed, also, that the Japanese boycott of Indian cotton will materially increase our shipments to Japan.

Investigations in other cotton-growing sections of the world have tended to relieve the fear that increased foreign production would in time cost the south its dominant position as a cotton-producing section.

Soviet Russia increased its cotton acreage from 50,000 to 5,000,000 in ten years' time, but during the past two seasons has turned most of this area to other purposes because it was found that the cost of production was greater than the price of the fiber in the open market.

Likewise, all the available land in India and Egypt has already been planted in cotton, and it has been demonstrated that production on other types of soil remaining will be too expensive to be profitable.

While, therefore, the condition of the American planter is critical at this time, his prospects for the future, in view of a lowered American output, increased use of American cotton abroad and the reaching of the limit of foreign production, is brighter than it has been in many years.

ANOTHER RELIEF DREAM.

The success of the bartering establishments operated in many cities throughout the country during the past two years encourages Professor Mordecai Ezekiel, economic adviser of the United States department of agriculture, to favor the organization of a national barter system.

Pointing out that largely because the burden of relief is proving an impossible one in many communities and states, self-help barter systems have come into operation in 28 states, Professor Ezekiel, who is, incidentally, a member of the so-called Washington "brain trust," suggests—

The creation of an integrated public corporation, operating throughout the country, and producing and distributing the products and services which its employees needed. It would organize workers, resources and equipment already available to produce somewhat as they have produced in the past. A large part of the industrial unemployed consists of workers previously employed in producing capital goods. A system of self-help production and exchange cannot use these workers until it can devise some system of exchanging the farm implements of Chicago, the tires of Akron, the automobiles and trucks of Detroit, the cement of Cleveland, the steel and glass of Pittsburgh, for the food, clothing and shelter which the unemployed workers in each of these areas need.

Professor Ezekiel's plan would include the organization of a $100,000,000 corporation, financed by the R. F. C., to acquire stocks of commodities prior to commencement of its own operations. This corporation would be authorized to issue script which would be the medium by which commodities would be bought and sold.

Not only would surpluses of manufactured articles be swapped through this corporation for agricultural and raw material overproduction, but, in Professor Ezekiel's opinion, the activities of the corporation would furnish jobs for many workmen prior to the time when industry will again be able to put them to work.

In many respects impractical—especially in the matter of competition with business—the plan is at least directed at the condition which finds the producers of the world generally overstocked with their own products and suffering for practically all other commodities.

The governor of Oklahoma has chained the chairs to the wall occupied by visitors to his private office. Well, that's one way to make job-seekers remain their distance.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

Hitler And Peace.

Nearly all the British papers, including some of the most sober-minded and least given to sensationalism, are devoting pages upon pages recently to the tremendous spurt in armament and preparedness in Germany. The British cabinet has had two secret meetings where Germany's rearmament contrary to the clauses of the treaties was the sole subject under discussion.

If a tenth of the reports printed in the European press about Germany's rearmament is true, the situation is growing serious. No wonder that the French premier, M. Daladier, made a hurried inspection, accompanied by the whole French general staff, of France's frontier defenses and no wonder that in answer to the monster demonstration of Hitlerites in Nuremberg, the French minister of war replied in a public speech with the words: "We are ready."

There is no question but that Germany will be checked in her rearmament campaign. The only question is, who will take the lead? France will not act alone. France insists upon unanimity of European action against Germany. That is why all eyes are turned on Britain.

Britain still holds the position of arbiter on the European continent. The latest reports are disquieting in the extreme. Whereas it has been thought that Germany would require four or five years to equip herself sufficiently for a war emergency, experts now affirm that Germany will be virtually ready in a few months' time. Nobody debates any longer whether Germany wants peace or war. Everybody seems convinced that Herr Hitler and his counselors are striving with full force in that direction because they see in war the only solution for Germany's economic ills.

Only a lifting of the clauses restricting Germany's right to rearmament, it seems to them, can give Germany a new start.

A big army is a country's best customer. It is the slogan. And if the other nations will not permit a big German army openly—why then it has to be created in secret. A nation's government, like that of Herr Hitler, with its daily appeals to German might and German power and Germany's place in the sun, has no other course. The hour is grave.

"Liberation."

We hear rumors in Europe about the appearance of an anti-Semitic movement in the United States. Papers are published inciting the non-Jewish population against the Jews. It is said that Jews are responsible for the crisis, that it is to the credit of the crisis has been artificially created and stimulated by some mysterious Jewish conspiracy sitting someplace in Moscow or in Wall Street. No specifications are given. An ancient forgery, a hundred times exposed as a forgery, known as the "Protocols of the Elders of Zion," is invoked by the anti-Jewish agitators to show that the Jews are determined to wreck the world. The foolishness of the charges, I hope, needs no demonstration with intelligent people.

But let me ask this: If the Jews really had some central organ of authority, some organization that bound them together, which they have not (for no people are more divided among themselves than the Jews), but if they had such a general staff in Wall Street or in Moscow or in Paris or in Jerusalem, and they did wreck the world, wouldn't they wreck themselves also? Are they not part and parcel of the world? Do they not live on money when things go wrong anywhere? And don't they share to the full in civic responsibilities wherever they are?

Let us keep a sense of proportion. Let us not be diverted from our immediate task, i. e., overcoming the economic crisis by following the counsel of misleaders, who would have us turn against the Jews. Even if we turned away all the Jews, we would still have the economic crisis. It is that crisis which is our enemy and that is inherent in the evolution of history. Nobody produced it willingly. Nobody of all the Jews. If you only take a look at Jewish misery in Eastern Europe, the hopelessness of it, the degradation of it, you don't listen to the sort of tommy-rot that is scattered about by journals with high-sounding names of "Liberation."

History shows that the country which "liberated" itself from the Jews immediately fell into decadence. Let us beware!

News Behind the News

By Paul Mallon.

ADVICE WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—Mr. Roosevelt's best friends are known to have told him that he must make a currency statement immediately whether he wants to or not.

They have advised him the late uncertainty has been bad on every kind of business.

This is the contract period of the year. Bankers, merchants and buyers are supposed to make their winter commitments. They cannot do it until they know what the administration's currency policy will be for the next few months.

Anything the president chooses to do cannot be half as bad as doing nothing.

THE WALL

These insiders know Mr. Roosevelt went off to Hyde Park to think it over.

They appreciate that he has been unable to convince himself thoroughly that the time for a basic change has come. They like his rule of doing nothing while the least doubt exists in his mind.

But they believe the situation has now pinned him up against the wall. Psychological measures cannot help. A decision must be made or at least promised. Uncertainty has ceased to be a stimulating help and has become a confusing hindrance.

RADIO?

For that reason those who have talked with Hyde Park recently are convinced the president will shortly make the third national radio appearance of his administration.

The big thinkers are convinced that will do more to help business than everything else now being done. It would enable the banker to lend, the businessman to plan his stock and the customer to plan his buying.

HAPPY ENDING

The bankers and administration officials who have been growing at each other for weeks are about to shake hands and make up. At least that is the promise made inside. You will be able to see shortly how far it is carried out.

Chairman Jesse Jones of the R. F. C. is supposed to have won his point on the capital stock issue. The New York bankers have grudgingly agreed to promote co-operation in it.

They do not need more capital. But some banks out in the country can use it in preparing for the deposit guarantee examination.

The New Yorkers are expected to lead the way for banks generally by taking a moderate amount of R. F. C. cash themselves. That will provide a happy ending for a very difficult situation.

BANK GUARANTEE

If the old stage peace pact is carried out, it means the deposit guarantee will go into effect January 1, rain or shine.

The pressure in congress seems to be too great to follow any other course.

The banks seem to be resigned to it and the government is co-operating by a liberal interpretation of the law. Solvency (rather than liquidity or capital assets) is to be the test in examinations.

Meanwhile progress is being quietly made in the preparation of the new administration bank bill. Treasury Secretary Woodin recently had a proposed draft of it. Senator Carter Glass is back on the scene, helping out in the formation of it.

BAD TASTE

The recent Thomas-Smith cotton inflation show left a very bad taste in the mouths of the highest administration officials.

They are not saying anything about it publicly now because their democratic friends led it. But they will not soon forget it.

Everyone knows government policies are fixed in private conferences. Public displays like the cotton conference are only ballyhoo rallies. They merely agitate. Far more influence can be exerted inside without so much publicity.

In this instance all it did was to put the president on the spot. It created the impression that a group in his party was trying to force him. It will be embarrassing to him in any move he chooses to make.

A different and very much more effective course was followed by Senator Pat Harrison.

Incidentally he went off to play golf for a week while the cotton conferees were gumming up their show.

OPEN MARKET

The reason the federal reserve crowd eased down on their open markets operations the last half of last week was that excess reserves were then at a new peak.

The Black crew started out on a scale which would have meant possibly $100,000,000 open market operations for the week. At the end it had accumulated a net of only about $37,000,000.

Nevertheless $100,000,000 a week is the goal. It will be reached whenever the excess reserves situation warrants.

NOTES

Contractors are kicking backstage about the extraordinary caution of Interior Secretary Ickes in trying to keep the public works program free from graft. They say he is counting every nail.

That situation may not last much longer.

The war department is sending officers to the Rocky mountains and far middle west states on army transports by way of the Panama canal and Frisco. They figure it is cheaper that way, but apparently they do not count the salaries of the officers wasted on the long joy ride.

Most forlorn figure in Washington is Carlos Marques Sterling, Cuban ambassador under De Céspedes and now foreign minister. He does not know whether to go home or stay here because his job may blow up any day before he can get to Havana. He calls daily at the state department and is received as Mr. Sterling since he has no official status.

Boris Skvirsky, the unofficial soviet representative, also is a frequent unofficial visitor at the department. He hob-nobs with Robert Kelley, chief of the unofficial Russian division.

If the Help Could Read Your Mind, They Wouldn't Be Hired Help

By Robert Quiller.

A certain young lady of my acquaintance frequently astonishes the members of her family by breaking into the conversation with some remark that seems utterly meaningless.

Perhaps the family has been discussing commodity prices. The young lady, having taken no part in the conversation, will suddenly come to life and declare with some heat: "I don't believe she loves him."

She isn't daft. She has been pondering over some matter known only to herself, and the matter is so clear in her own mind that she takes for granted a similar understanding in the minds of others.

Her fault isn't unusual. Indeed, it is so common that it causes most of the world's misunderstandings.

Because some detail of an agreement is to you clear and unmistakable, you assume that it is equally obvious to the party of the second part. And thus you invite a quarrel or a lawsuit.

In Elbert Hubbard's famous story of the message carried to Garcia, the hero received no instruction except a simple order to take the message and deliver it. Being a story-book hero, he needed nothing more. But nine messengers in ten would have bungled the business, and the fault would not have been theirs.

As a matter of fact, no experienced executive would say: "Take this to Garcia." He would say: "Take this envelope to Mr. Garcia—old John B. Garcia—the one in Cuba. You will find him at Don Pedro station, 60 miles east of Havana on the P. D. & O."

And even then the messenger might have delivered the envelope alone because the contents were not mentioned.

Germany made preparations for war in the reasonable hope that England would keep out. For want of a clear declaration of England's intentions, the kaiser assumed, until too late, that England's fleet would be neutral.

Detailed Report on Project Forwarded to Capital by U. S. Engineer.

Quick action was expected Sunday by officials on Georgia's plans to build a number of highway projects in the state with $10,000,185 from the federal public works fund.

Administration officials have shown anxiety that the highway program get under way as soon as possible, as the government believes the most pressing need of the moment is to put the unemployed back to work.

Georgia allotment of the funds was delayed by controversies between Governor Talmadge and the highway board since the difficulties have been attributed to the satisfaction of the administration it was believed all speed would be made to get the program under way.

A preliminary outline already has been approved by the governor and the detailed projects were en route to Washington Sunday through Charles D. Sneed, of Montgomery, division engineer.

No difficulty was expected since the projects were prepared under the advisement of federal engineers. Mr. Sneed could not be reached in Montgomery Sunday but Saturday it was believed the plans would be forwarded to Washington that night or Sunday.

The preliminary outline showed 50 per cent of the money would be expended for federal highway system projects, 27 per cent within municipal limits and 23 per cent on secondary highways. The money will be spent on 250 projects in 123 counties.

Location of the projects was not given out by state or federal officials but Mayor James L. Key, of Atlanta, said he had learned a $1,000,000 road was planned in Fulton and adjoining counties.

ROOSEVELT HEADS TOWARD CHICAGO

going against the advice of many friends.

The president was represented as believing that because of the economic program which cut the allowances of some of the veterans he should go to their convention if at all possible, taking advantage of the trip also to visit the exposition.

Announcement of his departure was delayed until the last minute, it was claimed, because of national affairs and more particularly the Cuban problem.

The president's party included Mrs. Roosevelt, two of his secretaries, Stephen T. Early, Marvin H. McIntyre, Colonel George B. Crowder, a military aide, and newspapermen.

During the day the president worked on the draft of his Legion address and also put the finishing touches on the speech which he will deliver at New York Wednesday night to the National Catholic Charities.

He arose early because of the press of business affairs, went for a train drive about his farm, and later attended services at Hyde Park Episcopal church where he is senior warden.

Then he returned to the house to untangle the tasks that kept him busy until train time.

LEGIONNAIRES ARE PLEASED AS ROOSEVELT HEADS WEST

CHICAGO, Oct. 1.—(AP)—As President Roosevelt journeyed across the continent today to address the plenary session of the American Legion convention the 250,000 former soldiers formulated plans to welcome him and pondered what influence his remarks may have on the Legion's program.

City officials immediately ordered 2,000 policemen to duty tomorrow to meet the president at the city hall and escort him to the mammoth Chicago stadium, where the chief executive will speak before delegates to the Legion's annual gathering.

Legionnaires looked to Mr. Roosevelt for solution of their troublesome problems of veterans' relief and for an answer to charges of crippling national defense in the interest of economy.

Leaders declared his presence would have a heartening effect on all Legionnaires.

"We were confident President Roosevelt would do everything in his power to be with the Legion," said National Commander Louis A. Johnson, "and we are most grateful that he found it possible."

The president will address perhaps 30,000 of the 300,000 Legionnaires flooding on the World's Fair city of the convention. The crowd of the stadium is limited to that number.

Legion officials believed the president's remarks might have the effect of increasing the demand for relief among delegates today for immediate payment of the bonus, which demands sent thousands of veterans marching on Washington two years ago.

Because some detail of an agreement is to you clear and unmistakable, you assume that it is equally obvious to the party of the second part. And thus you invite a quarrel or a lawsuit.

300 OF GEORGIA GROUP ARRIVE FOR CONVENTION

Scores of Children, Adults Enter 'Dog Week' Contests

Tribute to "Man's Best Friend" to Be Paid During Observance Sponsored by Constitution.

By THE DOG EDITOR.

Somebody who said "every dog has its day" meant, of course, that the time would come for the underdog when it would have its moment of triumph. Beginning Sunday, and continuing throughout this week, all dogs in Atlanta and vicinity—pedigreed or just plain mutt—will have seven days of triumph, for National Dog Week is being observed.

Several contests in which adults who are attached to their dogs and children who love their dogs can pay tribute to their pets have been arranged by The Constitution, the Fox theater, the Atlanta Veterinary Society, and business firms.

Notable among the contests is one for the most original amateur photograph of a dog. The photograph may be sent to the Dog Editor of The Constitution by boy or girl or adult and the only requirements are that it must have been taken by an amateur, since the contest was announced, and not published. The photograph adjudged the best will win for the person who submits it a pedigree wire-haired terrier offered by the Atlanta Veterinary Society.

Scores of Pictures Entered. Scores of photographs have been received and numbers of persons under 16 years of age are joining the Dog Lovers' Club by filling out and sending to the Dog Editor the coupon printed at the end of this article. Accompanying the application should be a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Membership cards will be sent to the member and will entitle the holder to attend a special dog picture at the Fox theater Saturday morning at 11 o'clock.

Six other prizes will be awarded in the photograph contest, in the order in which they are listed here: A book of famous dog stories; a three-month pass to the Fox theater; for two; a dog's bed of cedar shavings; a dog's chalk block and feeding bowl, and large photographs of the winning dogs, offered by The Constitution photographic department, and suitable for framing.

For children under 16 years of age there is a special contest for poems. The winning poem will win for its author two books about dogs. Second place will win a dog collar and leash, and the third prize winner will receive an assortment of dog remedies.

Prize For News Story. To the person who writes the best news or feature story about his dog will be awarded a sterling silver name and tag plate. What happier gift for your pet than a nameplate about its neck awarded to you for a written tribute to its loveliness! A set of harness will go to the person placing second. A third award will be an assortment of dog food.

First prize in the contest for limericks about dogs will be a three-month pass for two to the Fox theater; second prize will be a 10-pound bag of kenneled food, and a third award will be an assortment of dog remedies.

Owners of dogs which have performed heroic feats in 1933 are invited to describe the performance in communications to the Dog Editor. The facts reported will be verified and to the dog selected as the hero among dogs in Atlanta and vicinity will be awarded a handsome silver trophy offered by Maier & Berkele.

Adults are eligible for all the contests excepting the poem contest restricted to children under 16 years of age.

CLEVELAND WILL PASS TUESDAY ON 3 LEADERS

Congressman, Mayor and Former Mayor Vie for Mayoralty.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 1.—(AP)—An outspoken democratic congressman who is, however, an "insurgent" in local politics, will test the power of Cleveland's highly organized regular political forces Tuesday as the voters name two candidates for mayor from a primary field of seven.

Marlin L. Sweeney has risen to challenge the candidates of the closely knit democratic and republican organizations, Mayor Ray R. Miller, seeking re-election, and former Governor Harry L. Davis, asking a return to the mayor's seat he occupied in World War days.

The vigor of Sweeney's campaign has injected a note of uncertainty and veteran political observers have hesitated to predict which of the three will lead the ballot count. They assert the other four candidates will trail far behind the Sweeney-Davis-Miller trio in a total vote they forecast as high as 175,000.

Miller and his administration have received the brunt of the attacks of both Sweeney and Davis. The mayor has retaliated with a vim, insisting his record of economy and unemployment relief entitles him to another term.

ALLEGED BANK BANDIT FLEES ARKANSAS JAIL

PRESCOTT, Ark., Oct. 1.—(AP)—June Brasher, 32, accused with the notorious Charley Chapman of having robbed a bank at Hope, Ark., of $24,000 several months ago, escaped from the Nevada county jail here late Saturday with another prisoner.

Brasher was to have gone on trial at Washington, Ark., next week for his alleged part in the robbery which officers charge was engineered by Chapman, who has eluded officers since he was arrested and placed under bond two months ago for a Camden bank robbery.

Varying Moods of Puppyhood

Buckhead Symphony Orchestra Is Brilliant in Formal Opening

The Buckhead symphony orchestra, with Enrico Leide as its conductor, Sunday afternoon made a brilliant formal opening not only of its own first season of symphonic concerts, but of the 1933-34 season of concerts in Atlanta. A large audience of prominent Atlantans, and, incidentally, enthusiastic music lovers, attended the concert, held in the Buckhead theater. The program offered a list of the old favorites in the symphonic repertoire, but the rendition given them by the Buckhead symphony orchestra was by no manner of means stereotyped. Leide and his finished musicians revealed new beauties in the things that are heard repeatedly, new depths of feeling in the old works, new musical marvels and new artistry in interpretation in the popular classics.

The "Unfinished Symphony" of Schubert, was the "piece de resistance" of the afternoon and for which appreciation rose to unlimited heights. Before it was finished it must have been the simultaneous thought of everyone in the audience that at last Atlanta has in its possession something that it has hungered for these many years—a symphony orchestra that promises to hold its place among the great orchestras of the country.

Mr. Leide conducted the entire program from memory. The orchestra was characterized by its careful finish and polish, its unity in attacks, its perfected ensemble in following the slightest whim of the director, and the beautiful tonal blending.

Other numbers of the program were a paraphrase on melodies from Victor Herbert's "Naughty Marietta"; selections from Tchaikovsky's "Nutcracker Suite"; Strauss' "The Blue Danube Waltzes"; "The Londoner Air" for strings alone; and Sir Edward Elgar's "Pomp and Circumstance March." Their next concert will be next Sunday at 8 o'clock in the Buckhead theater.

Daily News Plans $374,000 Expansion

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—(AP)—The Daily News today announced it has embarked on a $374,000 expansion program which will give employment to about 170 men for two months. The paper said it would buy new presses, additional stereotyping machinery, more trucks and a larger garage.

The program, the News says, evidences the paper's "purpose to support the recovery program by spending its money and its confidence that the NRA will succeed."

HEAD OF FULTON HIGH TO ADDRESS MASONS

R. L. Ramsey, principal of Fulton High school, will speak at the meeting of Malta Lodge No. 641, F. & A. M., at 7:30 o'clock tonight. The program will start the fall activities of the lodge. Thomas Gibbs Fowler, master of Greenfield Lodge No. 400, will be in charge of the music, featuring the Greenfield Lodge Male chorus.

A. B. Morton, worshipful master of Malta lodge, announced that a cordial invitation is extended to all master Masons to attend the meeting.

IT TAKES HEALTHY NERVES TO PLAY CHAMPIONSHIP BRIDGE!

● ABOVE—REAL CONCENTRATION AT BRIDGE is impossible, according to Mr. Barclay, if your nerves are jumpy. "I prefer Camels because of their flavor, and because I can smoke as many as I want without jangled nerves."

Steady Smokers turn to Camels

On the importance of healthy nerves to a bridge player, Shepard Barclay, the "authority on bridge authorities," has this to say:

"Every bridge player can and should learn every system of contract bridge...but it takes real concentration to play a different system with every partner. That kind of concentration naturally involves terrific nerve strain. Personally, I find smoking a decided help to concentration. I prefer Camels...I can smoke them steadily without experiencing jangled nerves...they're always mild!"

Steady smoking brings out what a cigarette's really got. Smoke Camels yourself. Make your own comparisons. Your own experience will confirm all that Mr. Barclay says. Camels are milder. And they never get on your nerves.

● ABOVE—SHEPARD BARCLAY, who in two months won twenty tournaments with twenty brand-new partners, smokes steadily while playing.

● LEFT—"THERE ARE TWO KINDS of bridge players—those who smoke while they play bridge—and those who play bridge while they smoke," Mr. Barclay says. Well—both kinds have a good time! Play either way, and smoke Camels—for more pleasure, for the sake of your nerves—and your bridge!

IT IS MORE FUN TO KNOW

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand. Leaf tobaccos for cigarettes can be bought from 5¢ a pound to $1—but Camel pays the millions more that insure your enjoyment.

CHANCE SHIFTED TO TECH CENTER BY COACH ALEX

Lindsay Promoted to Varsity Tackle From Grey Devils.

By Jimmy Jones.

While the football fans were digesting the Sunday returns from the battlefield, Coach William Alexander, the head marshal of the forces at the Tech Flats, did a bit of stock-taking on his squad yesterday and announced a couple of shifts in his line.

Phil (he'll get another) Chance, sophomore tackle from Florida, Ala., will be shifted to center on the varsity line today to take the place of "Circus" Lyons, third-string snapper, who has been felled by the faculty again. Lyons will likely be ineligible for most of the Jackets' remaining games.

Jim Lindsay, a sophomore from Milledgeville, Ga., has been promoted to the varsity from the Grey Devil squad to take Chance's place at left tackle. These changes will become effective at today's practice.

"Mutt" Morris, a lineman whom Coach Alex had planned to make the third-string center, will be left on the Grey Devil squad for a while longer to watch the outcome of the Chance-Lindsay experiment. Morris recently became eligible.

NOT SO BAD.

Coach Alex was in fairly good spirits over the performance of his team in its first test against Clemson Saturday. Of course there are a few rough edges that he will work on this week, including the blocking, position of linemen, the shift, etc.

The centers will get lots of practice snapping the ball, too. In a close game the two wild heaves might have cost the Jackets dearly Saturday. Young Carl Shaw, who made two miscues, needs only a little more experience to get the range and one of the bad snaps wasn't his fault so much as a bad snap. A more seasoned center would have held the ball or called for a check of signals in the first instance Saturday, but then it was Shaw's first game.

Shaw is likely looking material, being big and rangy. He can overcome the snapping fault.

Coach Alex was well pleased with the fact that his squad came through without a single injury. It was something of a record for the first game.

MIKE HAS HOLIDAY.

Trainer Mike Chambers had his first holiday of the year. Not only did Mike have to open his little black bag, containing restoratives, or rush out on the field to render first-aid.

"I think it's a record," he told Coach Alex in the training room after the game. Mike would have become a little lonely with no injured to care for, but for the fact that the training room was full of Clemson players who were injured and Mike went to work on them just as diligently as if they had been Tech's. The Clemson squad was pretty badly battered up, not to mention the varsity, and with a game with N. C. State coming up, will appreciate Mike's efforts.

Mack Tarpe, scouted Kentucky Tech's next opponent, in the game with Sewanee Saturday night, returned yesterday to make a report on the Wildcats' maneuvers. He saw Stanley Bach, the Wildcats' handy half-back, snatch the game out of the fire on a long forward pass to win it for Kentucky, 7-0. Tarpe thought Kentucky better than it looked in this game and that the line looked awfully big.

OLD CONFERENCE TEAMS PREPARE

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 1.—(AP)—With most of them only too glad to cheer the Southern conference football teams turned their thoughts today to the first of the October battles.

Four of the loop's eleven will begin preparation tomorrow for championship games, while the others will make ready for week-end engagements with non-conference members.

Duke's Blue Devils, at the head of the procession, as a result of their easy 37-0 triumph over Virginia Military last night in the first championship game of the season, will go outside the conference to play Wake Forest.

North Carolina State and Clemson, both of them whipped by Southeastern conference teams yesterday, will battle at Clemson in one of the two title tilts, while Virginia Tech, soundly trounced by Tennessee, will take on the University of Maryland at Norfolk in the other.

State outpointed the Tigers in their meeting last year, 13 to 0, while Tech's remarkable eleven won last season, 23 to 0, from the Old Liners.

Bike Contestants To Race Today

Heat winners who race today are Buster Hester, Roland Brown, Will Walhouse, O. T. Walhouse, Joe Gluck, Henry Wolfe and George Graf. Three tied for eighth place will decide it today.

And a Good Time Was Had by All

HOLLISTER, Cal., Oct. 1.—(AP)—Black eyes and bruises were nurse today by several high school football enthusiasts who participated in a free-for-all fight here after a San Jose fullback leaped from the substitute bench, rushed to the field and downed a Hollister player who was touchdown bound.

Players and rooters of both teams mixed in the fighting. Hollister won the game, 13-0.

Louis Slatford, Hollister backfield player, had covered 50 yards in a flashing sprint over a clear field toward a touchdown when John McGuire, benchman San Jose fullback, rushed out and downed him with a flying tackle.

San Jose was penalized 15 yards for having 13 men on the field.

"Well, Kid, I Guess This Means No More Road Work!"

By Dillon Graham, Associated Press Sports Writer.

The Southeastern conference today held all the honors in its inaugural series with the Southern conference football teams.

Three Southern contenders Saturday dove into rival territory with high hopes. And all limped home, badly beaten. Perhaps the biggest surprise was the margin of Tennessee's victory over Virginia Tech.

The Volunteers were slight favorites but the Gobblers were figured strong, and a triumph for V. P. I. did not seem out of the question. However, Tennessee tore through the Virginians, 27 to 0, with reserves carrying the fight part of the way.

WYNN IS VICTIM.

But the victory brought sorrow to Tennessee. Brecky Wynn, a crack fullback, suffered a shattered ankle and may be lost for the year. This may prove a decided setback to Tennessee hopes for a Southeastern title, although Coach Bob Neyland has several good reserves, including sophomore Toby Palmer.

Employing a snappy new hop-skip-and-jump shift, which saw the forwards and quarterback lineup facing their backfield, then in military order, Tennessee rushed into the end zone, 39 to 2.

Georgia brought another decision by downing North Carolina State, 20 to 10, after trailing the Wolfpack at half time, due to a magnificent 50-yard field goal by McQuay.

Loop teams won, lost and tied in three interconference combats. Louisiana State beat Rice, 13-0; Tulane lost to Texas A. & M., 13-6, and Vanderbilt played a scoreless tie with Oklahoma. Army bested Mercer, 19-0.

Sewanee gave warning it could not be taken lightly this year by holding Kentucky to a 7-to-0 score in the only interconference contest of the week. The game appeared destined to end a scoreless affair, when Bach ran a last-period punt back 77 yards for a touchdown.

Alabama revealed a powerful offensive in trimming Oglethorpe, 23-0; Mississippi beat Mississippi Teachers, 45-0, and Mississippi State won from Millsaps, 12-0.

Intercollegiate Athletic Association, Centre downed Louisville, 30-0; Mississippi College beat Louisiana College, 33-7, and West Kentucky won from Mississippi Teachers, 32-0. Furman outpointed Kentucky, 14-6, and Centenary white-washed Henderson, 27-0.

SATURDAY'S GAMES.

Five games bringing together Southeastern conference teams are set for next Saturday. Alabama meets Mississippi, Georgia plays Tulane, Tennessee takes on Mississippi State, Florida plays Sewanee and Georgia Tech deploys against Kentucky. Vanderbilt plays North Carolina, and Louisiana engages Millsaps, while Auburn is idle.

Other games include Birmingham-Southern and Southwestern, Centenary and Baylor, Furman and Erskine, Howard and Presbyterian, Loyola and Rice, Mississippi College and Mississippi Teachers, Mercer and Navy and Oglethorpe and Manhattan.

A GREAT CAREER.

The story of the Striblings was always one of the greater stories of the ring. It began when "Pa" and "Ma," then a couple of kids at Bainbridge, Ga., were married.

There were the two boys, "W. L." or "The Boy," as "Pa" called him, and Herbert. "Pa" Stribling had wanted to be a fighter but his father had forbidden it. And so he said that he would make his first son a champion.

The Striblings went into the show business as a family of acrobats. And a feature of the act was W. L. and Herbert in a boxing match.

I recall sitting in the kitchen of the Stribling cottage at Geauga Lake, Ohio, where Stribling was training to meet Max Schmeling with the world's heavyweight title at stake. And "Ma" Stribling was telling of the old days and the brass ring posts and the plush robes about the ring in which the kids fought. It was a great story.

The career ended, of course, in so far as the world's championship was concerned, that hot night of July 3, 1931, in the cavernous depths of the towering municipal stadium at Cleveland. Max Schmeling beat him in 15 rounds, the fight being stopped midway of the final round.

I can see it yet. Stribling piling up points so that had the fight ended at the 10th he would have been the winner. And then the sudden turn in the ninth as his strength began to go.

The heavy-browed German boy kept coming in, plodding and hitting. Hammering at the body so that the Georgia boy's strength slipped out.

And I can see the 14th round and the 15th. Stribling could hardly see in the 15th. But he came up and weakly held up his arms and tottered toward his foe. And there was the appealing look from Max Schmeling and George Blake, the referee, stopped the fight.

That was the end of his championship dream.

But if there wasn't a champion in that rumbling milk truck Sunday at noon—

"Well, kid, I guess this means no more road work."

HE ALWAYS HAD COURAGE.

"The boy" always had courage. But he never had that killer instinct that makes some of our fighters go tearing in like an animal gone wild. There was none of the cold, relentless fury about him. He is just a nice kid, despite his 28 years, who likes to joke and tease. He likes his home and his wife and his kids mean a lot to him.

And so the rats in the prize fight business didn't care for him. And "Pa" Stribling didn't go for all the crooked machinations which surround many fights. He didn't always "cut in" the right "people" and that didn't help the boy. They were all too decent for a rotten game and they were some of the few who helped to dignify it.

But he always had courage. I recall talking with Ernie Schaaf, who was to die after a fight some months ago, and he told of the fight in which he beat Stribling unmercifully.

"I don't see how he took it," said Schaaf. "He could hardly talk but he waved the referee away and came at me again."

And I can see Schaaf, as he unconsciously held up his big fists and stared at them.

He always had courage.

BOONE'S COMMENT.

Foy Boone, a close friend in Macon, was with him when he went into the operating room.

"W. L. knew his foot was gone," said Boone, "and he thought he was dying from the internal wounds. But he never moaned or said a word about his injuries. He kidded me as he always does. And he told the doctors to go ahead. Anything was O. K. with him."

He was never a world's champion but when his career was done he finished greater than a champion.

But the victory brought sorrow to Tennessee. Brecky Wynn, a crack fullback, suffered a shattered ankle and may be lost for the year. This may prove a decided setback to Tennessee hopes for a Southeastern title, although Coach Bob Neyland has several good reserves, including sophomore Toby Palmer.

Employing a snappy new hop-skip-and-jump shift, which saw the forwards and quarterback lineup facing their backfield, then in military order, Tennessee rushed into the end zone, 39 to 2.

Georgia brought another decision by downing North Carolina State, 20 to 10, after trailing the Wolfpack at half time, due to a magnificent 50-yard field goal by McQuay.

Loop teams won, lost and tied in three interconference combats. Louisiana State beat Rice, 13-0; Tulane lost to Texas A. & M., 13-6, and Vanderbilt played a scoreless tie with Oklahoma. Army bested Mercer, 19-0.

Sewanee gave warning it could not be taken lightly this year by holding Kentucky to a 7-to-0 score in the only interconference contest of the week. The game appeared destined to end a scoreless affair, when Bach ran a last-period punt back 77 yards for a touchdown.

Alabama revealed a powerful offensive in trimming Oglethorpe, 23-0; Mississippi beat Mississippi Teachers, 45-0, and Mississippi State won from Millsaps, 12-0.

Intercollegiate Athletic Association, Centre downed Louisville, 30-0; Mississippi College beat Louisiana College, 33-7, and West Kentucky won from Mississippi Teachers, 32-0. Furman outpointed Kentucky, 14-6, and Centenary white-washed Henderson, 27-0.

O'SHOCKER TOUGH FOE FOR SPEER

Frank Speer will get a main match shot at 140 lbs. Saturday night when he meets Pat O'Shocker, the shock from Utah, at the auditorium.

Speer, a former Georgia Tech football star, went into the wrestling game well up in the list by so many football players were having a try. His success has been slow but sure. He has been wrestling for almost three years and is already rated as one of the toughest youngsters in the game.

Speer likes wrestling. He has met Jim Landon and all the leading figures in the game. He gave Pat Sauer a great battle and won a number of matches in Atlanta.

"I've got what matches I could and have won all I could," he said. "I find it like like football. Except you have no one to help you. You are in there all by yourself without interference or blockers."

"I've never met this fellow O'Shocker but I know he is tough. Except you have no one to help you. You are in there all by yourself without interference or blockers."

Injured Fighter and Wife

Here is how W. L. Stribling, Georgia's famous heavyweight, and his wife looked on the occasion of a visit to Atlanta when the young fighter was at the peak of his career as a ringman. Yesterday, this career came to a tragic and premature end when Stribling had his left leg crushed when an automobile sideswiped the motorcycle upon which he was riding. His left foot was amputated immediately afterward.

ALEX PRAISED BY DAN MCGUGIN

By Dan E. McGugin, Head Coach, Vanderbilt University. (Copyright, 1933, by the North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 1.—Eleven Southeastern conference teams had outside games over the week-end. Those of Mississippi State against Millsaps, Ole Mississippi against Mississippi Teachers, Alabama against Oglethorpe and Florida against Stetson were in the nature of practice affairs, although Alabama and Florida were quite impressive.

Auburn won handily from a good Howard team. Georgia Tech astonished her great army of supporters by an irresistible and varied offense against Clemson. The latter has a good team and the 39 points scored by Georgia Tech signify the threat of possible disaster to the Blue Devils.

Some of us suspected Georgia Tech might be good. Coach Alexander has not had good or balanced material in several years. He is such a square-jawed sportsman that conference coaches want him to have good material, excepting on the days he may be making it miserable for our teams.

Georgia did well to win from a very strong North Carolina State outfit by a safe margin. Louisiana State scored two touchdowns on Rice and had several more had he had luck. The team was brilliant in the fundamental offensive weapons of power, fast-running backs and skillful passing.

Sewanee's Royal Purple, which so many years gaved in triumph over many fields, may be floating in the clouds again. She outplayed a strong Kentucky team most of the way, but lapsed just long enough to permit a punt to be returned 80 yards for a touchdown.

Tulane was the only conference team to lose, and by one touchdown, but anybody can lose most any time to the Texas Aggies, and play good football while doing it.

Vanderbilt had a hard day away out in the open country in its 0-0 game with the University of Oklahoma, which just naturally has a good football team. The Sooners team was better organized than Vanderbilt and has a great leader on the field in Dunlap, a powerful runner and a brilliant passer and punter. He was well supported by a great guard, Baschard, and by a group of first-class performers.

The closing gun was a very welcome sound to Vanderbilt coaches. We were pretty well satisfied with the work of the new Commodores, as a large part of the game was played by a team composed of nine sophomores and two juniors.

TRAINED NURSE PASSES SCENE, AIDS FIGHTER

Miss Jones' Heroic Work Enables W. L. To Reach Hospital Alive.

By Jimmy Jones.

The long and picturesque career of a fighter that began on the poorly lighted stage of a tank town theater before a countless audience which paid its money to see his kid brother knock him out and which later extended to the bright lights of Madison Square Garden and across the ocean to the rings of London and Paris, came to an end by the side of a road yesterday when W. L. (Young) Stribling, Georgia's most famous boxer, was picked up with his left leg crushed and dying.

An automobile, in the act of passing another on the highway, sideswiped the motorcycle upon which Stribling was riding, hurled him several yards away and left him mangled and bleeding while two friends and grief-stricken friends rushed to his side.

But for the experience and quick-wittedness of Miss Frances Jones, a trained nurse, who, with Roy Barrow, a friend of Stribling's, was riding along the road and saw the accident, the fighter might never have reached the hospital alive.

REVIEWING THE SHOWS

3 Current Features
Reviewed Previously

Three pictures now showing at three of Atlanta's first-run screen theaters have already been reviewed in The Constitution.

At Loew's Grand "Stage Mother" is the attraction, with Alice Brady, Maureen O'Sullivan, Franchot Tone and other popular players in the cast. At the Fox the attraction on the screen is "Torch Singer," with Claudette Colbert, Ricardo Cortez, Baby LeRoy heading the cast, while on the stage the Big Bethel choir is appearing twice daily in a program of spirituals.

Both these programs were reviewed in The Constitution last Saturday. "Lady For a Day," now in its third week of capacity audiences at the Rialto, was reviewed two weeks ago after its initial performance.

Unnamed Negro Is Star
Of Paramount Program

An unnamed negro boy in a short called "Stoopnecracy," with Colonel Stoopnecracy and Bid, is the star of the program of the Paramount theater this week, without a doubt. For pure entertainment value, he had them all beaten.

In the dippy short showing the nutty inventions of Colonel Stoopnecracy, the little negro gives a most amusing imitation of Cab Calloway, and his few minutes on the screen brought more evidences of appreciation from the audience than anything else during the entire performance. We sat through his part twice and maybe we'll go again.

The feature picture of the week stars Edward G. Robinson in "I Loved a Woman," featuring Kay Francis, Genevieve Tobin, Robert Barratt and several other good actors. "I Loved a Woman" is somehow or other based on the life of Samuel Insull, with the Armour backing house as a background. If you haven't tired of seeing pictures of the fall of the House of Insull you will probably enjoy it immensely, for the actors are capable enough to make most any story seem fairly new.

Though Kay Francis is billed over Miss Tobin, the latter has far the more important role, which she plays in the usual Tobin style—pleasantly but not outstandingly. Robinson shows that he can be aesthetic at times, and toward the last of the picture is particularly effective as a broken old millionaire who can't even remember his most important love affair—with Kay Francis, too. One has no difficulty in recognizing Insull in practically every move Robinson makes, so careful are the producers to show

'Out of the Night' at Erlanger
Is Play of Laughs and Mystery

Tonight, at 8:15, the Peruch Players at the Erlanger theater will present a play new to Atlanta, but one that has won highest praise both in New York, where it ran at two theaters for several months, and in leading cities where some of the greatest stock companies of the country have given it with much success.

It is called "Out of the Night," and is one of those productions that combine plenty of laughs with some hair-raising mystery. In fact it is said by some reviewers that it is difficult to decide whether it is primarily a comedy or a mystery play.

The scene is laid in a hunting lodge in Maine, on a night in mid-January with a wild snowstorm raging outside. Early in the play the murdered body of the millionaire owner of the lodge is discovered. About the same time a pair of young lovers quarrel and then the "kick" sheriff enters seeking a gang of bootleggers. And a mysterious Hindu character appears and disappears with dread facility at the most unexpected moments.

that the story is timely. We wonder if Insull's career will really end as "Loved a Woman" would seem to predict, and also what the former utilities magnate would say if he saw it.

U. S. CHINATOWNS
SEND DELEGATES TO NEW YORK MEET

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—(P)—The Kuo Ming Tang met here today with 25 delegates, a loaf of bread and a jug of tea.

It was the second triennial conference of the Chinese nationalist party in the United States and every American city which has a Chinatown sent representatives.

The enthusiasm was accidental, but the setting was eastern. A big jug of tea took the place of an ice cooler and there were dried herbs for food. Each delegate made a speech. Each urged his fellows to back the Chinese revolution. And each spoke in the native tongue of his province. Some couldn't understand others and it was necessary to interpret.

But all extolled virtues of their political faith, the Sam Ming Jui—"the people's livelihood, the people's rights, the people's nationalism." Red and blue streamers decorated the room and red and green Christmas trimmings were strung from wall to wall.

FOSTER AND HAILEY
APPEAL FOR VOTESAldermanic Opponents
Confident as City Primary Runover Nears.

Homer C. Foster and I. Gloor Hailey, fighting it out for the ninth ward aldermanic nomination in the only city-wide runover primary Tuesday, Sunday marshalled their forces for a last-minute appeal for votes.

Both had waged vigorous campaigns and both predicted victory, at the same time issuing statements calling on those who supported them in the September 20 balloting to rally behind them again.

Councilman G. Dan Bridges, of the third ward, and former Councilman Charles L. Chosewood, who will oppose each other in a runover in Tuesday's balloting, were waging aggressive battles, but on a more restricted scale.

There also will be four runovers for election to positions on the democratic executive committee. Elections are scheduled for the positions in the seventh, ninth, tenth and thirteenth wards.

"I wish to take this opportunity to thank all those who voted for me in the regular primary, and to warn my friends against overconfidence," Foster said Sunday. "My record is a faithful servant in the regular primary. They will satisfy that record if enough cast their ballots in the runover Tuesday."

"My only apprehension is that my friends may become overconfident and fail to visit the polls in sufficiently large numbers. More than 5,400 persons cast their ballots for me in the regular primary."

Two brothers, Chris and Walt, played by Chester Morris and Richard Arlen, respectively, grow up in the wheat belt. After college, Chris decides not to stay on the farm, which has been steadily enlarged for his inheritance by his father, but to become a speculator in the produce mart. Walt remains with the soil, and becomes a leader in the unrest which grows with the dropping price of wheat until he heads a general strike of wheat growers. Chris assists by staking all his money on an effort to raise the price of wheat, but the strike ends 24 hours too soon and Chris is wiped out. In his failure he wins the respect of his fellow members of the board of trade, and begins the upward swing again.

Cynthia, played by Genevieve Tobin, finds that she has married a man whose word is his law, and whose sublime confidence and nerve make him the storm center of the story. Scenes of intense interest in "Golden Harvest" include the courtroom demands made by the farmers for stopping foreclosures on farm mortgages, and the sale of farm equipment at auction by the sheriff, who realizes some $3 cash against a thousand dollar mortgage on that equipment. The power of the farmers is shown here, as they picket the grain elevators, armed with pitchforks, and dare any man to try to move wheat.

The Tarzan serial is too slow to be exciting. There are a few bright spots in an otherwise dull Mickey McGuire Comedy. An NRA Featurette and the Pathe Sound News complete a program overshadowed and unbalanced by the power of "Golden Harvest."

In Georgia's Fields and Streams

By H. A. CARTER

ALL'S WELL.

The new Laboratory (that capital letter to indicate the accuracy of calling it by that title) is almost straight enough to work in. For the first time in history I have a real laboratory away from the hallowed precinct of a museum; one in which I can scarcely move without upsetting a jar of specimens, to be sure, but nevertheless a real laboratory. It has plenty of shelf space for the storage of specimens; it contains a typewriter table with all the accessories for efficient work. Dissecting instruments and the battered old microscope are at hand. The library of those priceless journals and reprints is stowed away on the top shelf, and if I want to know what Stejneger thinks of the Green Pitviper in China, I have only to mount the stepladder and find out.

Now, when I come in from the field I don't have to think of getting out a card table and destroying the beauty of a respectable living room; even though my wife has been most indulgent being a zoologist herself, a living room-laboratory combination is somehow not a place for constant, and therefore valuable, work. There need never be any set up for work any more. I can take the catch of the day (or night, for time intervals must be readily interchangeable in the naturalist's life) and get right to work with never a thought of being interrupted by the advent of visitors.

Henceforth, you will read this column as it comes from the workshop, where the actual investigation of Georgia's wild life is going on. You will have the actual picture of progress, slow and seemingly tedious, that is being made toward an understanding of some of the problems of Georgia's animals and plants. Let me say that you have never been offered anything not based on actual field work, but there have been times when that work was remote from the time of writing. At all events, we can now stride where before we crept, and real progress is an actuality instead of a dream. Hasten the day when a museum will be our own here in Atlanta, and when five workers will carry on research where one is now struggling forward. We have a whole-souled group here in this city, but individually and collectively, they are hampered by lack of facilities.

will rely on their verdict regarding the selection of the ninth ward alderman.

There will be 14 ballot boxes scattered throughout the city.

PUBLIC WORKS FUNDS
OVER HALF ALLOTTEDIckes Hopes to Apportion
Remainder of $3,300,000,
000 Before January 1.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—(P)—The federal government has reached the halfway mark in its efforts to translate $3,300,000,000 of public works funds into wages for pay envelopes.

Secretary Ickes, the public works administrator, announced today that of the huge fund set aside by congress, $1,653,591,410 had been allotted for construction throughout the country.

The administration estimates that of every $1 it allots for public works, $5 cents will go directly into pay envelopes.

Of the money so far allotted, $1,478,963,841 has been for federal projects, which will mean the completion of hundreds urged for years by federal agencies and for which congress has not appropriated funds.

The remainder of the assigned funds—$174,627,569—has been allocated to non-federal enterprises, including municipal allotments for streets, power plants, sewage and schools and other projects outside the scope of federal government activities.

The public works administration intends to allot the remaining half of its fund before January 1 to strictly non-federal projects if possible.

ROUND TABLE OF BUSINESS

A General Weekly Review of Commerce and Industry Affecting the Greater Atlanta Trade Territory

Edited By JACK TUBBS

Willingham-Tift Lumber Co. Running Full Time First Two Months of NRA

COMPANY VIEWS PROGRAM AS SPUR TO ALL BUSINESS

Plant Here Has Added 31 Employees, Hiked Wages Practically Doubling Its Pay Roll.

With its entire plant running full time, the Willingham-Tift Lumber Company leaves no room for further speculation as to the effect of the NRA on business, especially in the building trades.

Sixty days ago, when the NRA blanket code was issued and the Blue Eagle wheeled in its flight and hovered to settle upon the nation, there was great speculation as to its ultimate effect on business for the immediate future, and far and wide industry was asking whether business would increase or diminish if the code was strictly adhered to by all.

To one who visits the Willingham-Tift Lumber Company's plant at 360 Murphy avenue, S. W., there can be no further doubt of the efficiency of the NRA program. The company, which adopted the blanket code August 1, immediately put on 31 additional workers, increasing wages and practically doubling its payroll. It has entered into the spirit of the NRA 100 per cent from the beginning, and is successfully carrying out the interpretations of the code.

"Our plant has run full time to capacity for the first 60 days," reports W. H. Willingham Jr., vice president and general manager. "This was partly due to the large number of contracts which we had on hand when the code went into effect, among them being work for Georgia Hall, government barracks at Fort Benning, the Citizens and Southern Bank building in Macon, 35 mill houses at Monroe, and other smaller jobs."

"However, since we have been on the code, we have received a most satisfactory volume of new business, and while there have been many hardships involved upon us, we believe the code will work out most satisfactorily provided all business concerns adopt and strictly adhere to all provisions of the code."

Mr. Willingham adds his personal belief that it will require several months yet to receive the full benefit of the national recovery act, and that it will be permanent instead of for only two years as originally designated.

It is very evident, says Mr. Willingham, that the code has accomplished much good in all lines of industry, and as soon as its adoption is universal and it is practiced 100 per cent, this improvement will become steady and continuous, for the business in a short while will be operating again at normal capacity.

CATHCART ALLIED ASSURES SAFETY

Service and Security Form Foundations of Storage Warehouse Here.

Founded on the bed rock of service and security, the Cathcart Allied Storage Company, at 134 Houston street, N. E., stands as one of the finest and most complete storage warehouses in the south, and lays just claim to the honor of being the finest in the city.

Of absolutely fireproof construction, the Cathcart Allied warehouse was erected only after a thorough study of countless other such buildings throughout the country, and embodies the best features of each. Constructed with complete security in mind, it stands as a monument to thoroughness and efficiency in planning.

He who stores his household goods in the Cathcart Allied warehouse, declares W. Lawt. Inglis, president, "may rest with an easy mind as long as it is there, with perfect assurance that the goods he has accumulated through years of effort will receive the same care and protection they would receive in his own home."

"This, perhaps, is one of the strongest points in the company's strict code of ethics—the rule that a client's goods shall be returned to him without wear and tear and in the right condition. The Cathcart Allied Storage Company, realizing the sacredness in which goods are held by a family which has lived with and used them for years, insists throughout its huge warehouse that every piece be treated carefully."

To this end, says Mr. Inglis, moth-proof rooms are provided for upholstered furniture, rugs and carpets, insuring absolute immunity from moth infestation while in the warehouse. Careful wrapping and padding also prevents any damage to goods in handling and piling. Sanitary cleanliness and ventilation throughout the building also are constant safeguards. The storage floors are dustproof.

The Cathcart Allied Storage Company, serving as trustee or guardian over goods left in its care, offers further protection for the owner in its hard and fast rule that no goods so stored may be returned except to the person from whom it is received, or his agent authorized by written order. Mr. Inglis calls attention also to the periodically conducted auction sales held in the company's own auction rooms at the Houston street building, at which countless Atlantas have obtained innumerable pieces of household goods at astonishing prices. Mr. Inglis points out that the goods thus disposed of in most cases are "distress goods," sold at the owner's express orders.

Throughout the Cathcart Allied Storage Company's service, its employees are veterans in their line, many of whom have been with the company seven or more years. Courtesy and efficiency are characteristic, and he who deals with this company is assured of service unsurpassed by any other such warehouse.

Among the first to adopt NRA code regulations in the conduct of its business, Cathcart Allied and its staff of veteran employees will be represented Wednesday in Atlanta's great NRA parade.

Auto Owners Urged by Layfield To Tune Up for Winter Months
"Tune Up for Winter!"
With football here and the chill winds of autumn and winter in the offing, automobile owners are being given this bit of practical advice by Layfield's Garage, 141-47 Marietta street, N. W., of which Z. "Zach" T. Layfield is president and manager. Just "Tune Up for Winter!"
To the automobile owner who takes pride in his car, and who gives it the same well-deserved care he would have given the family mare in the days before the "horseless carriage," tuning up for the winter is a vital necessity and a duty the importance of which he does not overlook.
Layfield's Garage, equipped to handle any kind of automotive repair work, is especially inviting at this time all types of fall and winter tune-up jobs. Whether it be reconditioning, rebuilding, repair work or readjustment, the Layfield Garage shop is prepared to do it quickly, efficiently and satisfactorily.
Mr. Layfield calls special attention in this connection to the vital importance of having the automobile readjusted after the hot summer for proper operation during the cold months.
Inspection reports and estimates on any work are supplied at any time.

BOND LIST IS SPOTTY, IRREGULAR IN WEEK
By VICTOR EUBANK
NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Uncertainties regarding the government's future fiscal policies, labor troubles and the continuance of industrial improvement gave the bond market a rather spotty and irregular appearance during the past week.
Daily sales volumes generally were below normal as traders and investors exhibited renewed caution in taking on sizable commitments. While high-grade corporate maturities held their doubtful moments, most of them finished a little better than even. Secondary issues, as usual, were influenced to a considerable extent by the movement of stocks and there were some sizable losers on the week despite intermittent rallies.
The ending of the month and the third quarter found sentiment somewhat better. There was a growing feeling that fixed income securities would still have an important place in the economic structure and that the government's efforts toward national recovery would be promoted, at least for the time being, through a broad expansion of credit rather than by drastic inflation of the currency.
Railway liens probably suffered more than those of other categories. Here it was feared that labor difficulties, both in the coal fields and in other lines, might affect shipments. Car loadings for the week ended September 2, showed only a small gain over those of the previous week, but were some $7,000 ahead of those of the similar 1932 period. Earnings of some of the leading carriers were holding up fairly well. Some doubtful October interest payments were assured late in the week.

MILHOUS, GAINES REPORT ACTIVITY IN HOME LOAN 4'S
Securities Dealers Explain Advantages of Newest Interest-Guaranteed Government Issue.
Milhous, Gaines & Company, security dealers, who specialize in United States government, Federal Land Bank and southern state and municipal bonds, report increased activity in the new Home Owners' Loan Corporation four per cent bonds, the interest on which is unconditionally guaranteed by the government.
Inquiries concerning this new security have come from both individuals and institutions, according to Walter B. Gaines, president, and a considerable volume of trading in the bonds has been developed.
In discussing the Home Owners' Loan Corporation bonds with Mr. Gaines and with James F. Milhous, vice president, at their offices in Suite 404, Rhodes-Haverty building, the following features were brought out:
These bonds are direct obligations of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, "an instrumentality of the United States," the capital stock of which is $200,000,000 and has been fully subscribed by the United States government.
Under the authority of the home owners' loan act of 1933, they are guaranteed fully and unconditionally as to interest, are acceptable at face value in payment of indebtedness due to the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, and are exempt as to both principal and interest from all federal, state, municipal and local taxation (except surtaxes, estate, inheritance and gift taxes).
The assets of the corporation which will support these bonds, Mr. Gaines states, "will consist of first mortgages on homes whose present day valuation is not in excess of $20,000, and loans cannot exceed 80 per cent of the appraised value of the property. All loans are to be amortized within a period of 15 years."
"Home Owners' Loan Corporation bonds are somewhat similar in type to Federal Land Bank bonds, except as to guarantee of interest by the government. Because of this guarantee of interest, and their acceptability at face value in payment of mortgage indebtedness due the corporation, and other favorable features, it would seem reasonable to expect that these bonds would not be subject to the same market irregularity, and should command a better price than Federal Land Bank bonds."
Commenting upon his associate's statement, Mr. Milhous further pointed out that Home Owners' Loan Corporation four per cent bonds are acceptable at par by the United States treasury as security for government deposits, and at market value to secure postal savings funds. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation, he adds, will accept them as security for loans made by the corporation at 30 per cent of par.
"In addition," Mr. Milhous states, "the comptroller of the currency has ruled that these bonds may be held in national banks in operation when received from the corporation in exchange for home mortgages, and valued, for the present, at par or the value at which the banks carried such mortgages at the time of exchange, whichever is the lesser."
Messrs. Milhous and Gaines express the opinion that these bonds constitute an attractive investment for both institutions and conservative investors. They will be glad to furnish any additional information desired.

WAGNER ELECTRIC ADDS TO SERVICE
Wheel and Axle Straightening Supplements Expert Brake Work.
Ever eager to give the utmost in automotive and brake service, the Wagner Electric Corporation, 14 Alexander street, N. W., has installed complete Mamee equipment—the most complete and up-to-date for use in correct wheel and axle straightening. This equipment supplements the company's huge electrically operated Cowdry brake tester and numerous other types of modern machinery designed to check and correct brake, motor and wheel defects.
Every motorist should subject his car now to complete brake and wheel inspection and adjustment, in preparation for hazardous road conditions during the rain, snow and sleet of fall and winter, according to H. E. Marsh, manager of the Wagner Electric Corporation.
Mr. Marsh points to the concern's complete inspection, test and adjustment services, particularly with regard to wheels, brakes and electrical equipment. A thorough preparation for the cold season, he states, should include a check of the front wheels and the front end, a thoroughgoing test of the horn, windshield wipers, mirrors, tires and lighting equipment, and expert inspection of both service and emergency brakes, with relining if found necessary.
Special emphasis is laid by Mr. Marsh upon the safety factor in automobile driving. He lays the utmost stress upon frequent inspection of brake equipment, for which the Wagner Electric Corporation is especially equipped with the finest and most dependable servicing devices.
Stressing the vital importance of perfectly conditioned brakes as a safety factor, Mr. Marsh calls particular attention also to the Barnes and Fisher brake-lining grinder at the Alexander street plant—and to the complete equipment for automatic brake lining. The latter, adjusted to high speed, is capable of inserting 150 rivets a minute. The brake-shoe grinder is especially designed for the reconditioning and restoration of worn automobile brake drums, and is adjustable for the grinding of brake lining for oversized drums.

Faith, Honesty and Enthusiasm Today's Needs, Says Dr. Newton

The world today is sorely in need of faith as well as honesty, Dr. Louis D. Newton, pastor of Druid Hills Baptist church, Sunday morning told a radio audience over station WABZ, in his "Druid Hills Hour," which centers on the theme, "Everyday Religion."

Dr. Newton quoted the words of Jesus concerning those who have lost their enthusiasm for life as being like "children who sit in the market place and cry to one another, saying, 'We piped and you would not dance; we lamented and you would not weep with us.'"

"Have we, like the people of the generation to which Jesus was speaking, lost that zestful enthusiasm which is so essential in triumphant living?" inquired Dr. Newton. "Have we become incapable of social co-ordination? Are we like old-time children in the market-place, too sadly disillusioned to play the game of life with joyous enthusiasm? Have we forgotten the secrets of creative enthusiasm?"

"There is something very fine in the antiseptic quality of honesty which tears away shame and pretense and snuggles and oily hypocrisy; still we must ever remember that all worthwhile achievement has been wrought in the spirit and atmosphere of creative enthusiasm. Cool and cutting criticism has never been able to supply the passion necessary for the supreme activities of man."

"William Watson has a line in one of his poems in which he speaks of 'Poets whose well springs have failed.' He is saying with startling vividness that the sources of failing vitality and waning enthusiasm at last are found within and not without. Gilbert Chesterton in his 'English Men of Letters' draws attention to Dickens as one who could create characters capable of optimism and the capacity for suffering and withal to maintain the gladness of living."

"I believe that the world today is sorely in need of faith as well as honesty. If a man will tell himself the whole truth about himself, he will discover in that costly honesty the promise of moral victory. Sustained by the discovery that our peace of heart depends upon honesty toward ourselves and faith toward God and our fellowman, we are then ready to go forth with recovered enthusiasm for the great game of life."

Dr. Newton and his quartet choir will be heard on station WGST every Sunday morning during October from 9:15 to 9:45 in a program to be known as the "Druid Hills Hour" with the theme of the programs centering on "Everyday Religion."
